Investment Philosophy

With an average of 15 years industry experience, the Frantzen investment team employs a fundamental, bottom up, disciplined security evaluation process to identify stocks for inclusion in the portfolio. Employing a strict buy and sell discipline driven by fundamental analysis and a technical overlay, Frantzen seeks to deliver capital appreciation through full investment and participation in the US equity markets. Our objective is simple: identify great companies that are also great stocks to own. To accomplish this, we are committed to the following:

- We believe in extensive research
- We believe in the fundamental principles of GARP
- We believe in the value of understanding the momentum of the market and its impact on individual sectors, industries, securities and relative market strength

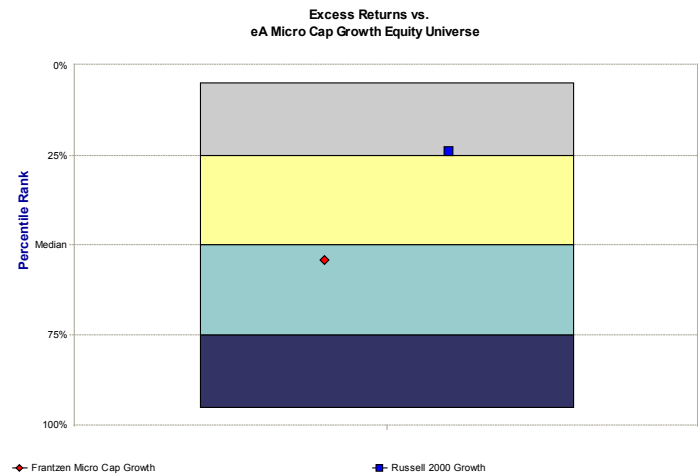

The Frantzen Difference

- Fundamental, bottom-up research discipline combines fundamental and qualitative assessments with momentum indicators
- Consistent team since inception
- Disciplined investment process developed over three decades of hands on research experience
- Time tested buy and sell disciplines
